Newsletter 23-13th March 2026

Dear Parents and Guardians,

This week, we were fortunate to step out of our classroom to support our peers. We attended the PYP5 end-of-unit plays on the Vikings and visited PYP3's exhibition of inclusive playground designs.

These visits are more than just a change of scenery; they are vital for our students' reflection. By seeing the work of older grades, our students begin to visualize their own future projects, sparking ideas on how they might innovate or build upon these themes when they reach those levels.

Sharing the Planet: Food for Thought

Back in our own unit, "Sharing the Planet," we've been busy exploring the world of nutrition. We kicked things off by mastering the vocabulary of common fruits and vegetables—though we discovered that sorting them isn't always as easy as it looks!

The children also dived deep into the different food groups, creating detailed booklets filled with facts. To wrap up the week, we brought these concepts to life by building 3D food pyramids.

Ask your child this weekend:

- Which foods are the best sources of protein?
- Why should we be mindful of our carbohydrate intake?
- What is the "superpower" of fiber in our diet?

Looking Ahead

Next week, we move into our first line of inquiry: Where does our food come from? We will be exploring the journey of food from farm to fork and taking a trip to the local supermarket.

Home Learning

Children have listened to a story about the food pyramid, and have all taken home a food pyramid to complete. They can draw/write/stick & glue pictures or such, or if they prefer to make a larger version instead, they of course have the agency to do this. Please support them in completing this and returning. Due Tuesday.
